Dead Serious: Youth Suicide: Myths, Facts and Prevention Jane Leder

Kevin and his girlfriend broke up. His father was a cop who worked, slept, and drank. In seventh grade, Kevin challenged a friend to a race across the street to a fast food restaurant. His friend was hit by a car and died shortly after. Kevin never talked about the accident. In high school, he had no sense of direction, no idea what he wanted to do with his life. Kevin committed suicide in his family's garage.

What went wrong? Why did Kevin and thousands of other teens decide to take their own lives? No one knows for sure. But there are a host of contributing causes like loss, depression, addiction.

Interviews with teens who tried to commit suicide but failed explain why dying seemed like a better option than living.

Parents discuss the grief, pain, anger, and guilt when a son or daughter commits suicide.

Teens talk about ways they can help a friend who is considering suicide.
