The Eden curriculum series reflects the collective experience of Eden faculty during the past 30 years of providing comprehensive, individualized services for children and adults with autism. Employing a hands-on approach, the series includes practical strategies with every teaching program provided, and each program has been successfully implemented in the lives of individuals and families served by Eden. The Vocational Volume encompasses skills that are designed to prepare individuals with autism and developmental disabilities for adult life and the world of work. The emphasis in using these teaching programs should be to foster appropriate levels of independence. Some students will learn to complete these tasks independently. However, other students may continue to benefit from some teacher assistance as well as assistive technologies or other accommodations. Maximizing independence means planning to use prompts which can then be faded.
